

*That is what learning is.
You suddenly understand something you've understood all your life,
but in a new way.*

Jaquie Thomas – N Vision Learning Consultant Profile

Learning Programs

Jaquie Thomas brings a unique combination of business, consulting and learning development experience to N Vision. She worked in international sales and marketing for ten years in the UK – covering mainly France and southern England. A five-year stay in Egypt marked the start of her move into the field of learning and development. Her international qualifications include a German university degree in social pedagogy, in which she specialized in adult education for four years, after moving to Germany in 1997, as well as the Certificate in Intercultural Communication, which she obtained in Portland, USA: This combination of practice and theoretical knowledge has made her a highly successful consultant. She uses her wealth of experience to help many hundreds of people to learn what can be pragmatically applied in the workplace – providing a return on learning.

Jaquie is skilled in helping people understand and learn how to do international business more effectively. She holds business-oriented communication skills workshops covering intercultural competence, international presentations and negotiations, and running international meetings effectively. She also works as a facilitator for kick-off, teambuilding and wrap-up events.

Her professional career has taken Jaquie from the UK to Egypt, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, France, USA, Austria and Germany. She is able to help people motivate themselves intrinsically – “find their own keys” – for business situations they may find particularly demanding, complicated or difficult to understand. She enables people to flourish in a diverse learning environment.

As well as her German degree in social pedagogics, specializing in adult education, Jaquie has also attended and completed intercultural development programs at SIIC, led by Dr. Milton and Janet Bennet in the USA.
