Kieran McVey - N Vision Learning Consultant Profile

With a background anchored firmly in training, sales and teaching, Kieran gets results by actively involving participants in the learning processes. This holds true in his current activities as an N Vision learning consultant serving international corporations, as well as in his capacity as a lecturer at the Ludwig-Maximilian University in Munich and at the University of Applied Sciences in Kufstein, Austria. Whether working with businesspeople to develop targeted skills linked to achieving specific business goals, or with graduate students leveraging knowledge and new skills from case studies, the focus is on improving performance.

Kieran brings variety and depth of experience in learning and sales from throughout Europe and the U.S.A. These activities span 16 years of management, language, sales and technical training, as well as both B2B and B2C sales of technical, publishing, software and service solutions. This experience has provided ongoing opportunities to develop multiple skills, practices and mindsets directly applicable to supporting international organizations in their efforts to maximize returns on learning and personnel development investments. This means effective and efficient knowledge transfer, reflection, participant practice and integration of new skills - skills that can be used “on-the-job” beginning immediately.

He has designed and delivered international learning programs for many of Europe's leading companies, including Allianz Lebensversicherungs-AG, Analog Devices GmbH, Bayerisches Landesamt für Wasserwirtschaft, E.ON Energy AG, Freescale (Motorola) Semiconductor, Fujitsu-Siemens Computers, Krauss-Maffei, Morphosys AG, T-Mobil Hrvatska (Croatia), Rohde & Schwarz GmbH & Co. KG, Roche Diagnostics GmbH, Sony-Ericsson, T-Systems GmbH and others.

Kieran supports N Vision learning partners with both design and delivery of group learning programs and also does individual performance coaching.
