

When entering a country, find out its customs.

- Li Chi

Molly Ng – N Vision Senior Consultant Profile

Molly Ng is a Germany based consultant and trainer supporting well-known organizations in their international business and global teams. Bringing European and Asian business partners together belongs also to her scope of work.

Her professional experience of over 12 years in working with multi-nationals, major commercial and industrial companies, government organizations and smaller companies at both strategic and operational levels has taken her to 12 different countries. Her area of expertise is team development, cross-cultural communication, managing across culture and technology transfer across culture. Her work centers much on Asia, in particular on Malaysia, Singapore, China, Indonesia, Thailand, Vietnam and Japan; she has particularly knowledge on working with the offshore Chinese communities.

Much of her recent work involves designing and implementing programs in the areas of international communication and cooperation, delivering training programs for senior executives in managing in Asia and developing intercultural awareness skills for some multinationals.

Molly's professional membership include SIETAR (Society for Intercultural Education, Training and Research).

Molly was raised in Malaysia and moved to Germany in 1995 to do her MA in Southeast Asia Studies and Psychology and subsequently made the move permanent. Her earlier studies in Chemistry were completed at the University of Penang, Malaysia, which was followed by a few years of work in the Asian region.

Growing-up in a multicultural environment, her bi-lingual mother tongues are Chinese and Malay but along the way acquired and speaks fluent German, English and Indonesian dialect. She is married to a German and has two children. She travels regularly between Europe and Asia for her work. In her leisure time, Molly enjoys reading, traveling, painting and golf.